We believe
 In our country and her destiny,
 In the great dream of her founders,
 In her place among the nations,
 In her ideals;
 We believe
 That her democracy must be protected,
 Her privileges cherished
 Her freedom defended.
 We believe
 That humbly before the Almighty,
 But proudly before all mankind,
 We must safeguard her standards,
 The vision of her Washington,
 The martyrdom of her Lincoln,
 With the patriotic ardor
 Of the minute men
 And the boys in blue
 Of her glorious past.
 We believe
 In loyalty to our country
 Utter, irrevocable, inviolate.
 Thou, in whose sight
 A thousand years are but as yesterday
 And as a watch in the night,
 Help us
 In our frailty
 To make real
 What we believe.

Dear Lorraine
 It's be wonderful knowing you these past two years. You're a wonder ful kid with a lot of school spirit. Be good always and stay as nice as you are. Now lots of luck and success in your junior year.
 Love
 Madeline

Dear Lorraine,
 Like best of luck in your remaining years at S.M.A. Stay
 the sweet kid you are.
 Love ya!

And when he fell in a whirlwind, he went down
As when a lordly cedar, green with boughs,
Goes down with a great shout upon the hills,
And leaves a lonesome place against the sky.

Edwin Markham

JOHN FITZGERALD KENNEDY

May 29, 1917 — November 22, 1963

On a hillside in Arlington Cemetery there burns an Eternal Flame, the symbol of hope and freedom. It lights the grave of a man who had a unique bond with each of us, a bond which was more than that between leader and followers.

John F. Kennedy was our president. Others may claim him, but he was really ours. In a sense, we grew together; he, as President of the United States, we, as students in St. Michael's. His administration gained its full maturity just as we began to attain ours.

His story is vitally entwined with ours. As freshmen, we saw him take office and invite us to "do" for our country. As sophomores we grieved with him over that ugly affront to freedom, the Berlin Wall. In our junior year, as we studied American History, he made it by refusing to be intimidated by Russian missiles in Cuba. And just two days after we received our long-awaited senior rings, he received another ring: his wife's wedding band, slipped on his finger in a final farewell.

Our president is gone, but the torch he accepted for us, the new generation, burns brightly near his grave. "And the glow from that fire can truly light the world."

President Lyndon B. Johnson

President Johnson waves to delegates after completing his address to the United Nations on December 17, 1963. It was the Chief Executive's first visit to the World Organization in New York since assuming the office November 22, 1963 following the assassination of President Kennedy.

His Holiness Pope Paul VI

Pope Paul VI addresses the Council Fathers during the opening ceremonies of the Second session of the Ecumenical Council. The Vatican Council reconvened on September 29, 1963, the feast of St. Michael, in St. Peter's basilica in Rome.

One hundred eighty-four years ago in Cork, Ireland, Honora Nagle founded the Congregation of the Sisters of the Presentation of the Blessed Virgin Mary. This religious Congregation was founded primarily for the education of youth.

In September, 1874, at the invitation of Reverend Arthur Donnelly, Pastor of Saint Michael Church, Manhattan, the Sisters of the Presentation became the teaching staff of Saint Michael Grammar School.

Fifty years later, another page was added to an already glorious record by the opening of a Secondary School of Business. The objective of the Parish, a four year academic high school was achieved in the year 1933, with the approval of the Board of Regents of the University of the State of New York.

Religion and Guidance

The study of Religion at St. Michael's is not so much a course of study as a way of life — a clear, definite plan by which we are guided toward our ultimate goal. The careful study of the Bible, the Liturgy and the doctrinal teaching of the Church, is coupled with a guidance program designed to enable Michaelites to look toward the future with confidence and maturity. Weekly instructions by the priests of St. Michael's and informal class discussions make us aware that our role in the world is to be a witness to Christ's Redemptive Love for all mankind.

Eileen Murphy points to Cana, the scene of Christ's first public miracle, while Karen Buechler looks on.

Rosemary Ferrara and Joan O'Brien scan the bulletin board for information on scholarship opportunities.

For Marilyn McIntosh, National Merit Finalist, the role is reversed. She has colleges writing to her inviting her to attend!

The college catalog file in the library is a very busy place. Denise Kotyk, Jill Frankenberry and Valerie Orridge have it all to themselves — in this picture!

All English students at St. Michael's are familiar with the S R A Reading Program. Pictured are freshmen of Class 104 securing the reading selections for their respective groups.

To read with understanding . . .

To study the great literary works of the past and the present . . .

To intelligently convey information to others . . .

No subject in the curriculum exerts more influence on academic achievement than English. The mastery of the English language is an important requisite for all who aspire to succeed in any work or profession.

Correct grammar usage, a precise and fluent writing style and a competent knowledge of our literary heritage are basic and essential if we are, by the spoken or written word, to communicate ideas and ideals to others.

To prepare for further study . . .

To speak with clarity and confidence . . .

Spanish

Sr. Mary Therese directs Pat Askin and her classmates over the hard spots during a recording session in Spanish. Individual recitations from the story "En El Mercado" are being taped. These will serve as a check on the students' pronunciation and intonation.

Modern Languages

French

French III students participate in the day's lesson by reenacting the taped roles of various characters whose images are projected on a screen. By listening and then reciting, the girls learn to improve their comprehension and their French accents.

Sister Mary Therese

From the everyday terms of conversational French and Spanish to the epic grandeur of Vergil's Aeneid — such is the range of our language program here at St. Michael's.

Conscious of the impact made by other cultures, modern and ancient, upon our own way of life, we study languages to broaden our understanding of peoples and places beyond our own environment. On a personal as well as a political level, command of a foreign language often breaks down barriers to mutual agreement. The serious study of languages is an important step toward improving relations between individuals and nations.

Sister Mary Raphael

To prepare for the competitive world of business, Michaelites make the most of the opportunities offered in the commercial courses: Introduction to Business, Shorthand and Typing. These subjects train the girls in the skills necessary for success as a secretary or stenographer. Because of their proficiency, many students in the commercial program are assured of good positions even before graduation.

Science Department

The end of all science, to know the wonders of God's world better, is well fulfilled in the science program offered at St. Michael's. Whether the course is General Science, biology, Earth Science, physics or chemistry, we stand in eagerness and awe before the marvels of the world around us. From the first timid taste of the thrill of experimentation to the study of the complex formulas of chemistry, we are deeply impressed by the beauty and order of God's handiwork.

Captive crustaceans offer biology student, Elaine Hopper, a glimpse into their underwater world.

Honesty, accuracy and curiosity are the personal equipment a scientist brings to his work. Mary Ann McCarren earnestly attempts to evidence all three.

A scientist's ability to make precise measurements is put to the test. During one of her class periods in physics, Margaret Finn calculates the mechanical advantage of an inclined plane and records the pertinent data.

The analysis and synthesis of compounds form an essential part of a young chemist's training. Christine Hank and Pat Campion add water containing sulfuric acid to the apparatus needed for the electrolysis of water.

Earth Science student Jo Ann Viola has just learned that minerals make characteristic streaks when rubbed on a piece of unglazed porcelain. She puts her knowledge to use as she tests a piece of hornblende.

History Department

History is the subject in which one studies the past in order to face the present with perspective and the future with preparedness. Here at St. Michael's, a student has the advantage of a four year program in history: Social Studies, World History, American History and Problems in American Democracy. These courses give us the knowledge which we can utilize to build a better tomorrow for our country and the world.

Mathematics Department

With her basic introduction to elementary algebra in Ninth Year Math, a Michaelite embarks on the fascinating sea of x and y , congruent triangles, cosines, logarithms and radicals. Sincere interest and diligent study carry her through plane and solid geometry, trigonometry and advanced algebra. The successful completion of these courses gives a wonderful sense of satisfaction that the intriguing world of numbers has been explored and conquered. In addition, Mathematics, the science of positive thinking, offers an excellent opportunity to improve one's power of reasoning with logic and precision.

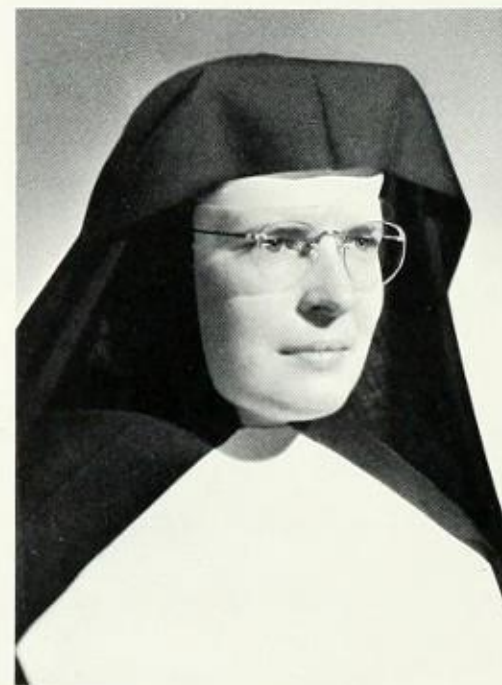

"Now girls, all you'll ever have to know is the general quadratic equation and everything else will follow. Of course, there are one or two exceptions . . ." Sr. Mary Leonard explains the principles of advanced algebra to absorbed seniors.

"It's really very easy," says Sr. Mary Michael. Mary Medica and Diane Staley are not quite convinced.

Sophomores have to learn the required theorems which are so important in the study of Tenth Year Math. These girls like to test each other's memory.

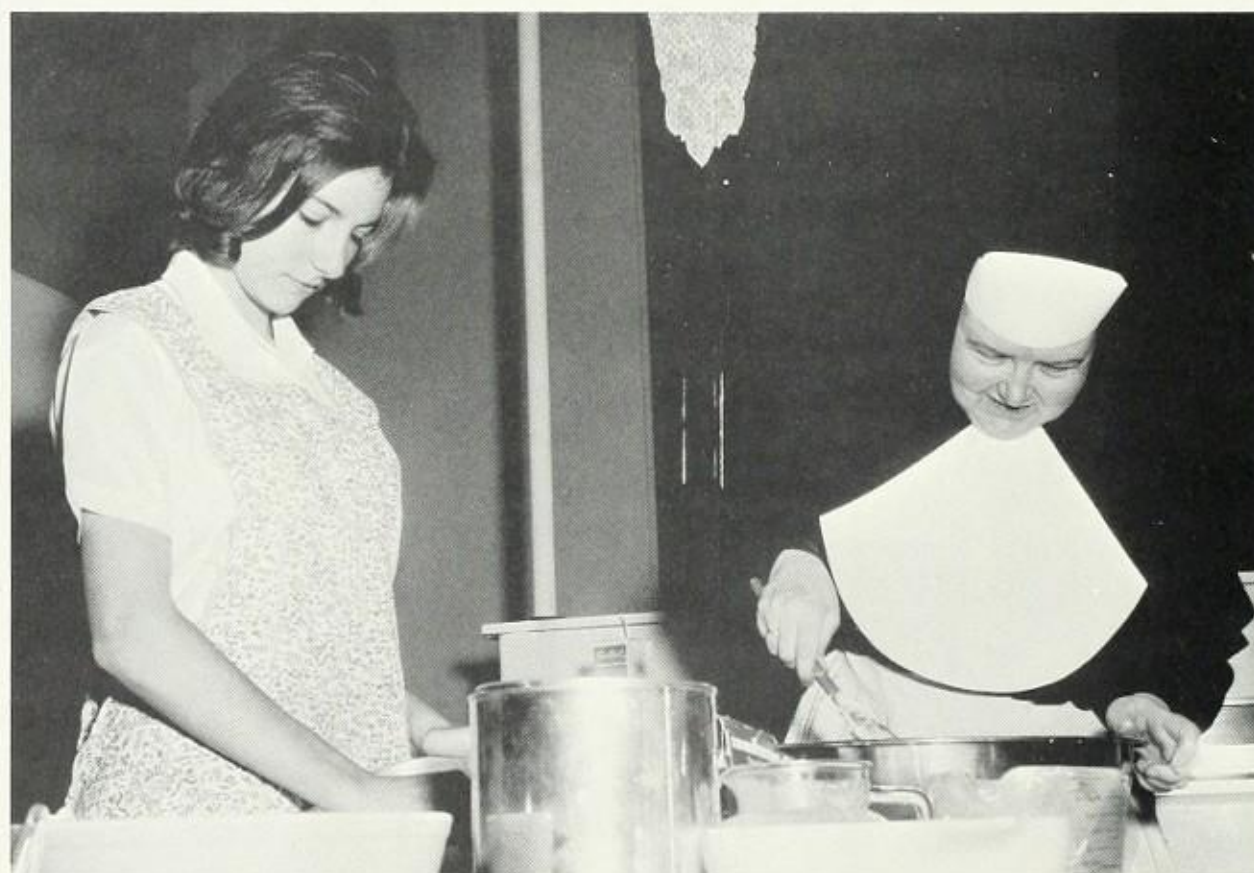

Cleanliness in the kitchen is essential and Delia Castro demonstrates that she has learned her lesson well.

C.F.L.

At the end of their sewing course, most girls are eager to use their skills in making their own clothes. Sophomore Barbara Cox is right at home at the machine.

Sr. Mary Christopher, assisted by Lois Coyne whips up a batch of muffins. Cooking class offers a pleasant opportunity to learn the culinary arts.

Christian Family Living — how much that title says! Cooking, cleaning and sewing, important as they are, are only the externals of the course. Generosity, graciousness, kindness and industry are developed in C.F.L. and these qualities will prove to be invaluable and coveted assets in the wife and mother of the future.

Physical Education

To maintain good health and to develop a vigorous and energetic body, Michaelites participate in a physical training program. Dr. Margaret Douglas is on hand each week to give sound advice and concrete help on health matters. In addition, students follow a demanding series of exercises under the direction of Miss Constance Cody. Competitive games are also engaged in for the purpose not only of physical fitness but also to instill a spirit of good sportsmanship.

WH-O-O-O-PS!!

The call of the wild blue yonder seems to be too much for these gymnasts who are making a mighty effort to get airborne.

Art

To appreciate and create beauty is the goal of our art courses in St. Michael's. From a study of the basic principles of color and design in freshman year to the oil painting course open to seniors, we develop our sense of beauty and creativity by study and execution.

Under the guiding hand of Sr. Mary Philomena, students of art experiment with the various mediums and techniques. While all may not be artistically gifted, all do enjoy the chance to satisfy the innate desire everyone has to express herself and to explore new fields of interest.

With determined countenances, Oil Painting students wield their brushes as Sister Mary Philomena examines their efforts.

Where there's music at S.M.A., you'll find Bernadette Lynch and Margaret Murphy whose lovely voices have charmed Michaelite audiences on so many occasions. This versatile duet are pictured singing a medley of popular folk songs at the Freshman-Senior party.

Music

Each Friday, Michaelites take time out from their regular classes for an enjoyable period of music with Mr. Warren Foley.

The major part of the year is spent in learning and perfecting the Gregorian chant. The whole student body is thus trained to sing at High Mass on special occasions such as Forty Hours' Devotion, Presentation Day and Easter Sunday.

For the Seniors, practice for the Graduation music is a reminder that music classes at S.M.A. are coming to an end and that "The Golden Pathway" stretches before them.

"Lift your voice in song and your spirit will soar along." Mr. Foley directs a gay septet of sophomores as they sing a sprightly tune.

The burden of running an efficient library is considerably lightened by student assistants. Outstanding among these is Olga Hladun who is pictured above adding the finishing touches to the library's festive Christmas decorations.

Sister Mary Francesca

Library

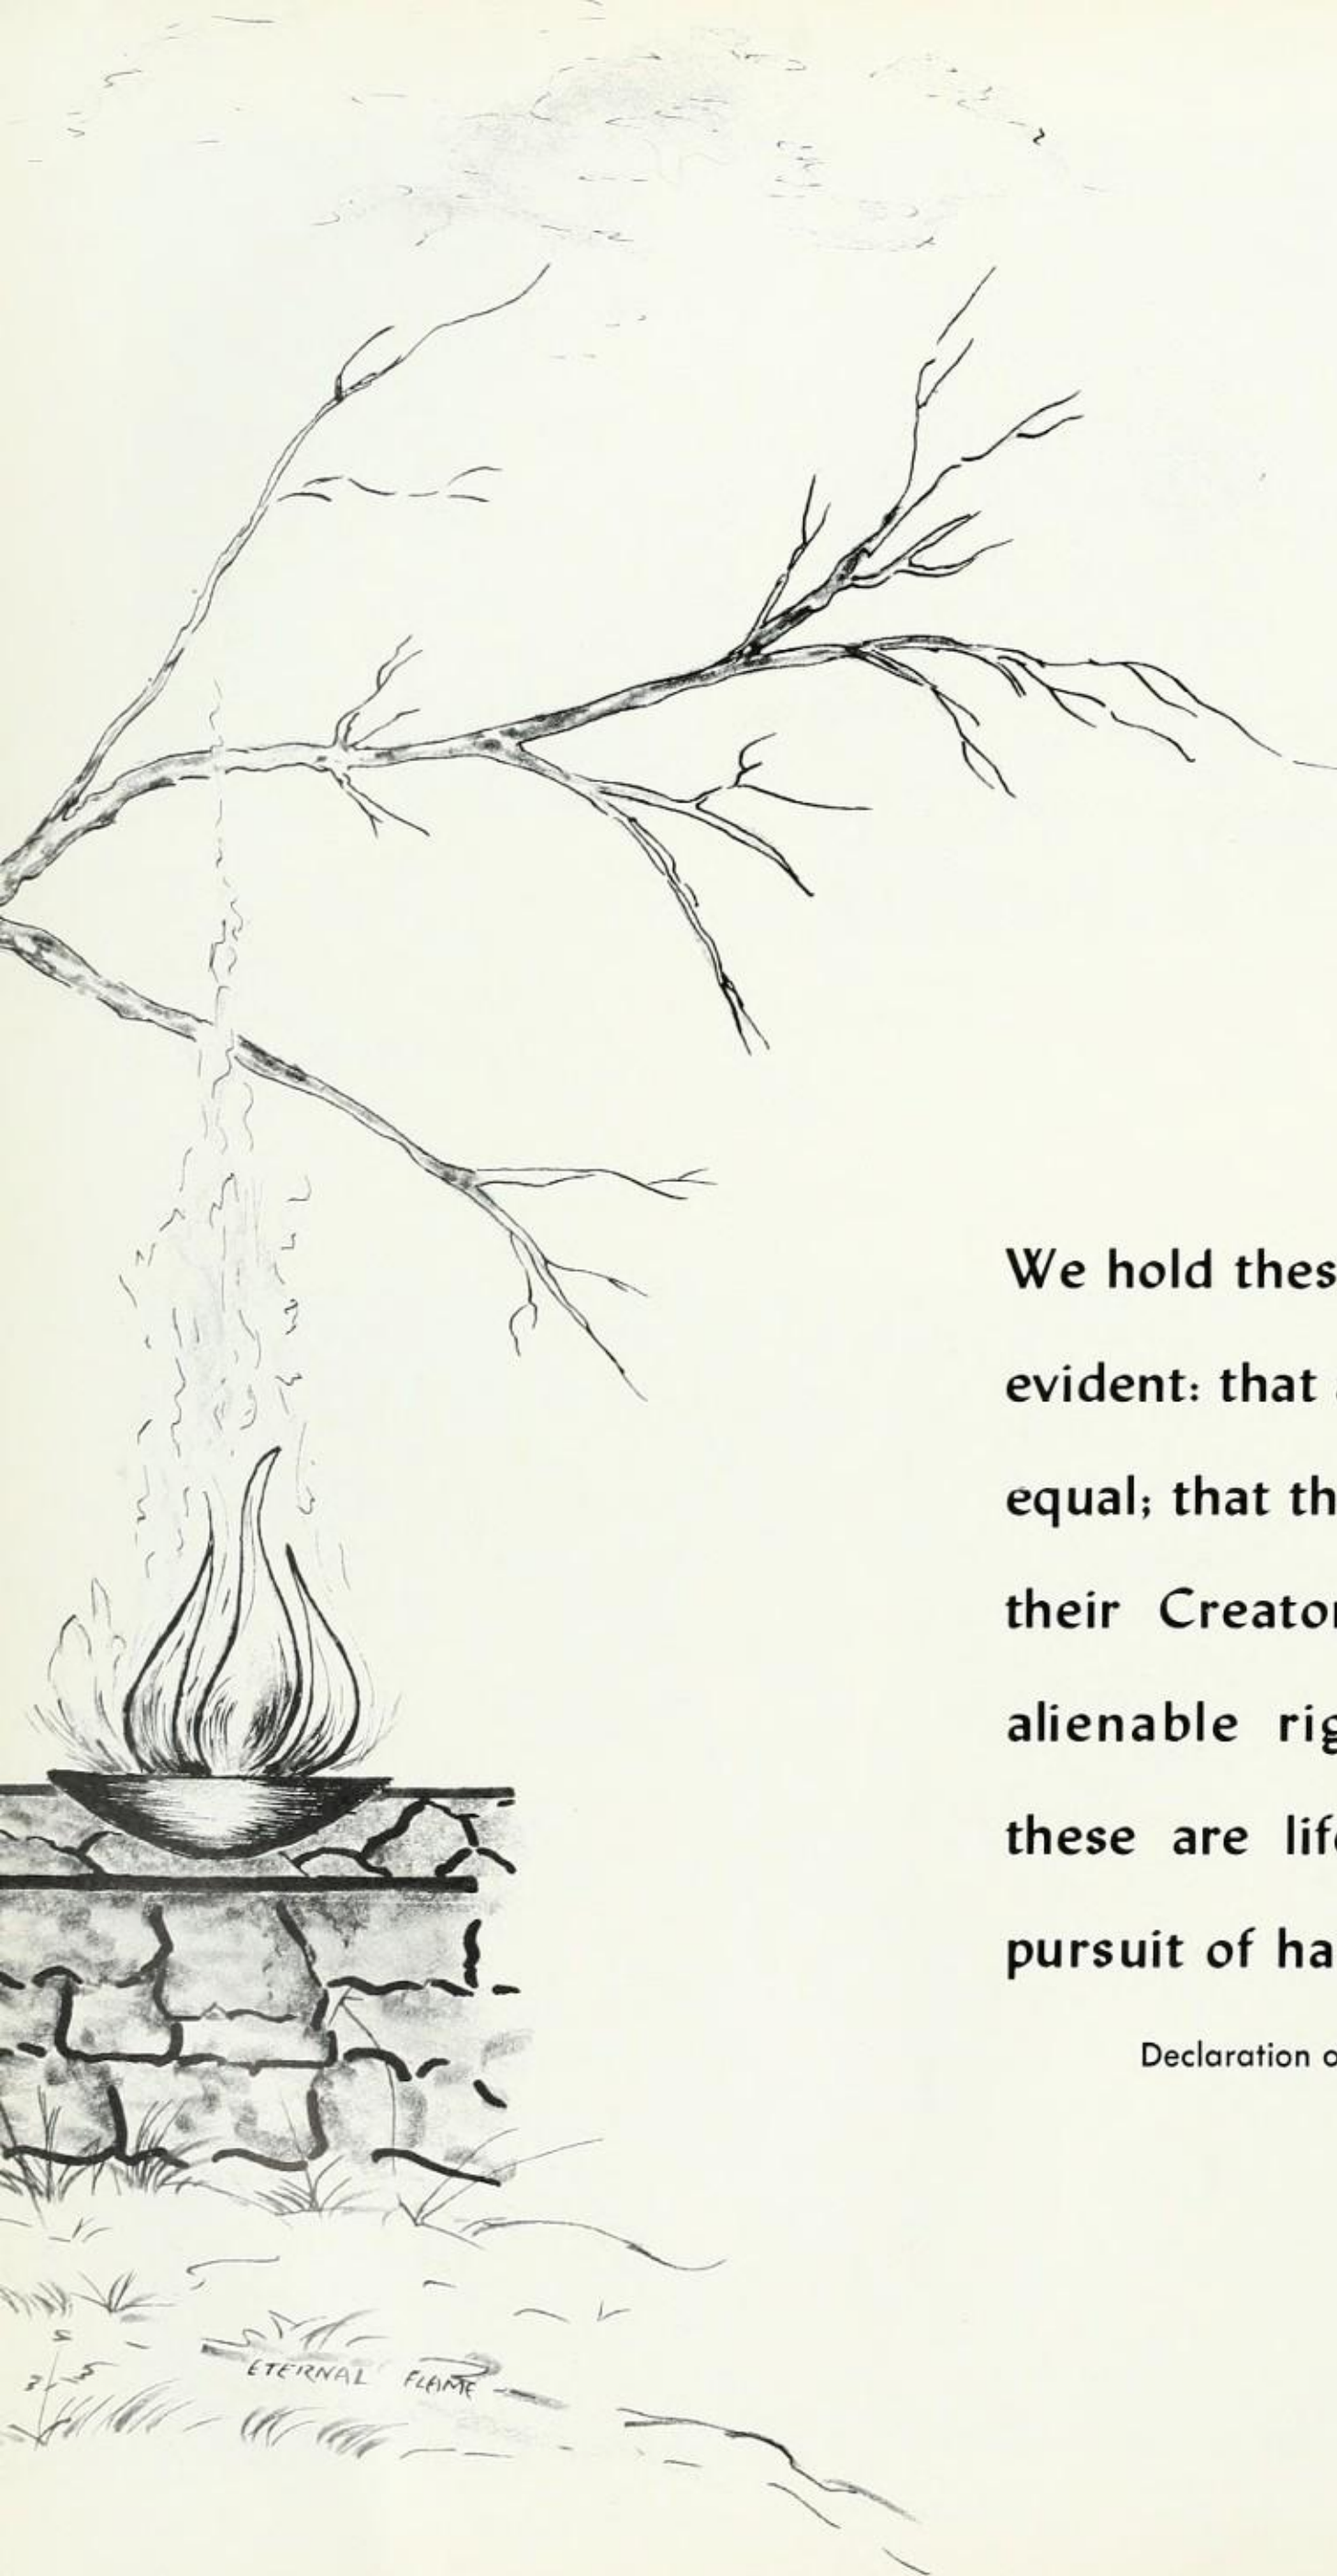

On duty at the library circulation desk — Rosemarie Redes.

The enchanting world of literature can be a wonderful escape from ordinary cares. The school library is the starting point for many a fascinating journey through the realms of fiction, science, biography or adventure.

Sr. Mary Francesca, our school librarian, is a most helpful guide on our excursions.

While the library contains many books to be read for entertainment, it is also an important source of information on varied topics connected with our academic work. Reference books, current periodicals, visual aids and record albums are available for student use.

Finally, Michaelites can always spend a few peaceful moments in the quiet of the library for reading, studying or just a little undisturbed thinking. No wonder the library is the most popular place in the school.

We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

DRAMATICS CLUB

As the Michaelite goes to press, the Dramatics Club is rehearsing for its major production, "Meet Me in St. Louis" by Sally Benson. The story centers around a family faced with the necessity of moving to New York just before their own city is host to a World's Fair. The leading roles are taken by Theresa Canizzaro and Linda Zerneck as the parents; and Ann McLoughlin, Laura Wallace, Johanna Catena and Rosemarie DeBonis as the daughters.

Gram Wilson (Laura Wallace), a wonderful cook, receives a visit from an angel in disguise, in "This Way to Heaven."

The angel, Mr. Flanagan (Linda Leite), is in need of a cook for his section of heaven.

When June Wilson (Ann McLoughlin), the granddaughter, and Charley Baker (Linda Zerneck) go shopping, Mr. Flanagan, after a verbal tussle with a demon, decides to leave Gram on earth for a while.

CHORALE

In a year which saw the Beatles and the Clancy Brothers soar to fame, St. Michael's own singing group performed for enthusiastic audiences on Presentation Day, during the annual school play and at the Graduation Dinner. Their fine rendition of songs, classical and popular, charmed all who heard them. The tireless efforts of Mr. Foley, Sr. Mary Christopher and each member resulted in a most successful and rewarding year.

CHEERLEADERS

Much of the support behind varsity victories comes from the cheerleaders. These energetic Michaelites encourage the team with their polished routines, exciting cheers and fancy jumps. Sister Mary Vincent sees to it that they are well-practiced in their art. To achieve this, long hours are spent in perfecting rhythm, coordination and precision.

During the half-time in a game between S.M.A. and St. Michael's Commercial, the cheerleaders rush on to the court to begin one of their liveliest cheers.

To accomplish its purpose YCS uses Observe, Judge, Act, which has become a standard formula for Catholic Action. The slogan summarizes the Social Inquiry technique used at the weekly meetings.

This Social Inquiry is the principal part of the YCS meeting. Members take turns leading it and the Scripture and Liturgy discussions. A permanent leader is elected after each of the group has had a turn. Groups are restricted to twelve members so that all will take an active part and be stimulated to apostolic, spiritual and intellectual growth.

Basketball

The 1963-1964 varsity team was one of the best St. Michael's has had. They displayed from the very beginning of the playing season, good form, good teamwork, good spirit and winning scores!

In games against St. Michael's Commercial and Cathedral High school, they played with power and dexterity. Their winning of these first two games augured well for a very successful year.

Miss Betty Steck, a student at New York University trained the team and kept the players in top condition.

Players tensely await the outcome of a high outside shot. Despite heavy guarding, Donna Buckley dropped the ball in for two more points.

Showing amazing poise and calm, Alice Strong reaches for the ball and then sends it on its way to raise the score another notch.

Yes, Dorothy, that was the whistle. At the end of the first quarter S.M.A. enjoys a comfortable lead.

The moments of Junior Year tick away.

An End and a Beginning

Dianne Woerfel leads the Prophecies crew in a musical farewell to the Class of '63.

Each spring, Senior Michaelites visit our nation's capital. From their home base at the beautiful Shoreham Hotel in Washington, they embark on a three day whirlwind tour of such historic spots as the Capitol Building, the Washington Monument, the Lincoln Memorial and Annapolis. They are also privileged to assist at Mass at the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception.

The climax of this year's trip was a visit to Arlington Cemetery to pay respect to our late President, John F. Kennedy and to say the Rosary for the repose of his soul.

Senior Trip to Washington

With minutes to go before the buses roll, Linda Zernecke, Maureen Connors and Margaret Murphy pause for an encouraging word to the underclassmen: "Your turn will come."

"Double your pleasure; double your fun." The Cicack and Devine twins plan to do just that in Washington.

A tableau symbolizing world unity under the patronage of Our Lady, Queen of Peace, is depicted as the Chorale sings "Immaculate, Our Patroness."

Engaged in conversation are Dr. William P. Riley, guest speaker; Monsignor Leuchs, Father Shelley and Miss Murphy.

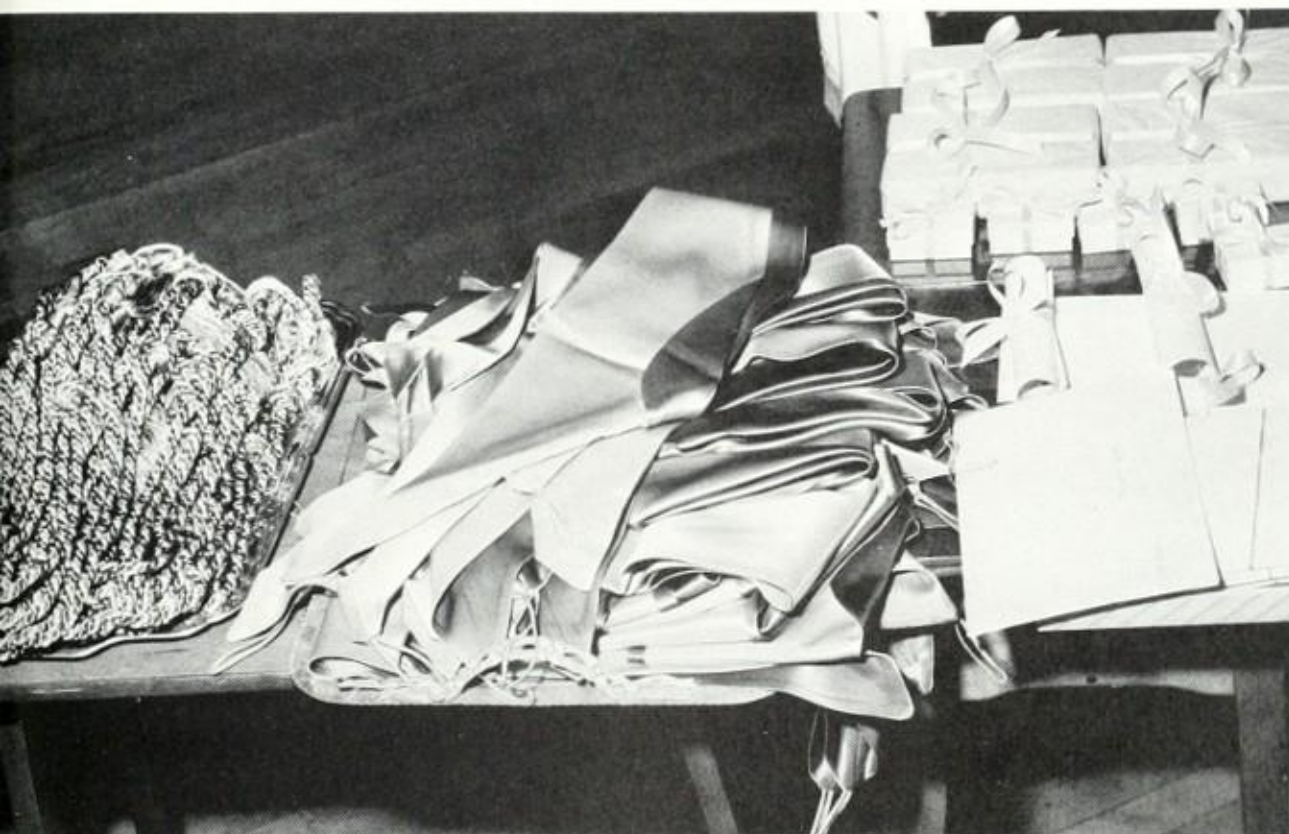

Graduation Dinner

The annual Graduation Dinner is the traditional start of St. Michael's commencement festivities. Seniors and their parents enjoy a program which includes selections by St. Michael's Chorale, a senior's tribute to Our Lady and an address by a guest speaker. At this dinner, outstanding seniors are honored for superior scholastic achievements as scholarships are announced and prizes given. Friendly conversation in a pleasant atmosphere makes the night one to remember. But the Graduation Dinner has a deeper significance. It affords an opportunity for proud parents to see the results of exercising their right as citizens in a free society to provide the education they think best for their children.

Dr. William P. Riley, a foremost spokesman for the National Organization for Decent Literature, speaks on "Pornography, A Threat to Youth."

May Crowning and Torch Ceremony

Profiles in anticipation — members of the class of 1964, Cira Virga, Christina Stogniew, Diana Galli and Linda Haut, look forward to the joys of senior year.

School President Karen Echols presents Sr. Mary Evangelist with a gift for the Sisters from the student body.

Presentation Day

November 21, 1963 was a day of double festivity. It was the feast of the Presentation of Our Lady and thus the titular feast of our religious faculty. For the Class of 1964 it was the day on which they were to finally receive their school rings.

The day fittingly began with the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass offered by Monsignor Leuchs and sung by the student body. After breakfast, the Dramatic Club presented a one-act comedy, "This Way to Heaven." The Chorale then entertained with several popular folk songs and the traditional "O Fairest of All Visions."

To climax the day, the Seniors went to the stage to receive their rings. There was a poignant note to this year's ceremony since it was the last time that the rings would be given in senior year. Beginning with the Class of 1965, rings will be given in junior year.

"Pray brethren that my sacrifice AND YOURS, will be acceptable to God . . ."

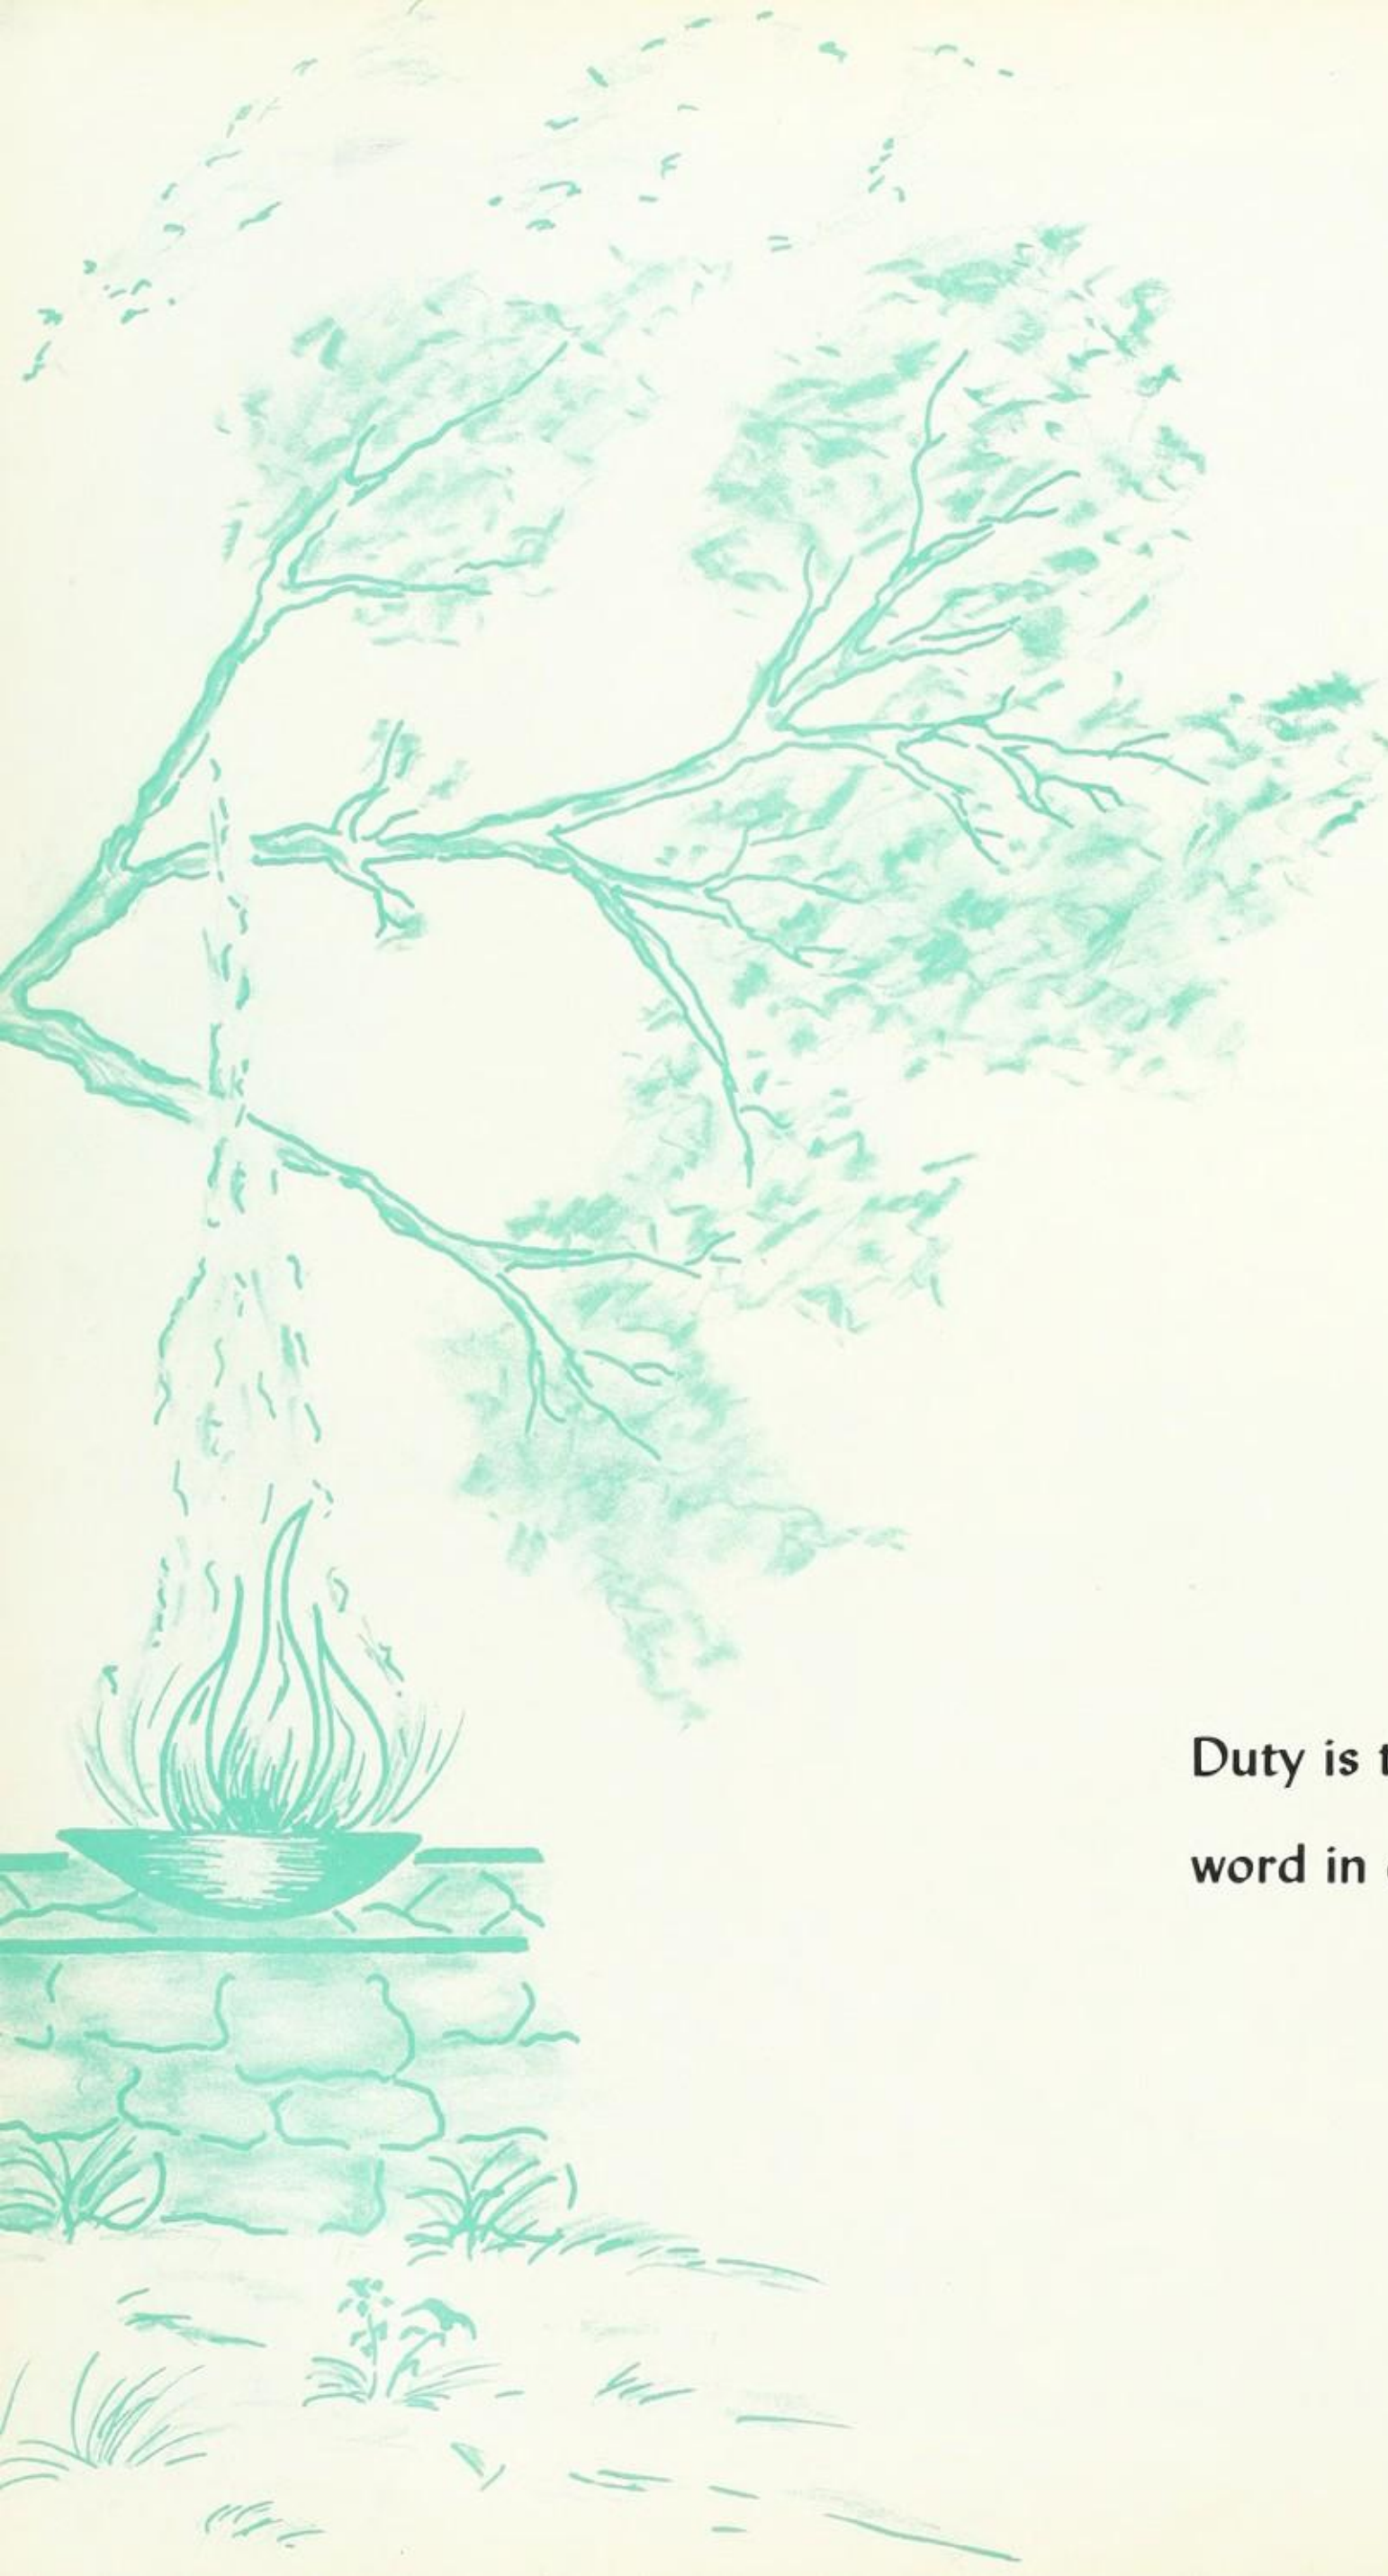

Those are smiles of delightful expectancy. Senior girls can scarcely conceal their feelings as they attend their last class before the Ring Ceremony.

Ann Dowd receives her ring and congratulations from the principal.

Karen Echols explains to her classmates the true significance of their rings.

Lord, make me an instrument of Your Peace!
Where there is hatred, let me sow love;
Where there is injury, pardon;
Where there is discord, union;
Where there is doubt, faith;
Where there is despair, hope;
Where there is darkness, light, and
Where there is sadness, joy.

Let the word go forth
from this time and place,
that the torch has been passed to a new generation of Americans . . .

THANK YOU

To Sister Mary Evangelist, our devoted principal for her interest and encouragement. We are particularly grateful for the initial sketches of the art work used on the divider pages and on the Dedication page.

To all the members of the faculty and the student body for their loyal support and cooperation.

To Mr. Richard Swanson of the American Yearbook

Company for his assistance and advice.

To Mr. Bernard Friedman and Mr. Angelo Paleo of Carol Studios for their many hours spent taking pictures for the 1964 MICHAELITE.

To all the Patrons and Boosters whose financial contributions made the production of this annual possible.
